

THE TERRACE AT KNIGHTSBRIDGE RE-OPENS FOR SUMMER LUNCHEES AND AFTERNOON TEAS

London, 1st June 2011: Parisian-style al fresco café, The Terrace at Knightsbridge, has re-opened for the summer season with a revitalised menu of lunch, light snacks and traditional afternoon tea. The seasonal 80-seater venue is set just in front of the Sheraton Park Tower, a Luxury Collection hotel in the heart of ever-fashionable Knightsbridge. Offering a perfect place to enjoy spring and summer sunshine, The Terrace's tables are shaded by elegant parasols but provide an optimum vista for people-watching over lunch, cocktails or traditional afternoon tea.

Enticing main courses include dishes inspired by The Terrace's sister restaurant, One-O-One, famed for its delectable seafood. Fish dishes at The Terrace, which include Organic Salmon with Black Olive Tapenade, Ratatouille Provençal, Caper and Parsley Sauce and Pouting White Fish & Chips, are all responsibly and sustainably sourced, having recognised the issues in the industry and the role restaurants have in supporting future fish stocks.

Lighter snacks include a selection of toasted Panini, sandwiches and freshly prepared summer salads for a quick bite at lunchtime. For long and leisurely afternoons, shoppers and sightseers can enjoy a full English afternoon tea with scones, cakes and a selection of teas. Some guests may choose to while away an afternoon with friends over a chilled bottle of wine from the extensive wine cellar.

New for 2011 is a range of smoothies and frappes with nine flavours – including mint, coconut and banana – on offer. All are freshly prepared and offer the perfect antidote to the predicted heatwaves this summer.

Local attractions in the Knightsbridge area include Hyde Park and the world-famous Harvey Nichols, right next door to the Sheraton Park Tower. With Harrods and the designer stores of the Kings Road just moments away, The Terrace is the ideal spot to relax after some retail therapy.

The Terrace at Knightsbridge is located at the Sheraton Park Tower, 101 Knightsbridge, London and is open seven days a week, weather permitting.
